FAQs

1. What will I learn?

The SIT Best Practices in TESOL Certificate Course addresses three areas:

1. Participants explore the relationship between language learning and teaching, which later provides the foundation for their investigation of teaching.
2. Participants plan, teach and assess lessons in the four skills (speaking, listening, reading and writing), grammar, and culture, through experiential activities, teaching demonstrations, discussions, lesson planning, and readings.
3. Participants put their new knowledge and skills into practice through daily practice teaching sessions. Trainers observe and facilitate feedback sessions after these lessons. From them, participants learn to reflect on and assess their own teaching as well as to learn from their peers' teaching.

2. What is the School for International Training?

The SIT Graduate Institute (formerly the School for International Training), located in Brattleboro, Vermont, is a fully accredited university offering master degree programs in language teacher education and intercultural management as well as more than fifty undergraduate study abroad programs. The mission of the school is to enable participants to develop the skills, knowledge, attitudes and awareness needed to contribute effectively to global understanding.

SIT is well-known nationally and internationally for its work in language teacher education and has been training learner-oriented, culturally sensitive and humanistic language teachers in their Master of Arts in TESOL course for over thirty years. It has prepared over 2000 active professionals who are working in the field today making significant contributions as classroom teachers, administrators or consultants throughout the US and in over 70 countries around the world.

Among the earliest proponents of experiential education, SIT's program provides teachers with the knowledge to achieve excellence in their classroom practice and to be advocates for intercultural understanding. These same elements provide the basis for the design of the four-week certificate program.

3. Why should I take the SIT Best Practices in TESOL Certificate Course?

The SIT Best Practices in TESOL Certificate Course provides practical training in which the participants develop skills in planning lessons and teaching speaking, listening, reading, writing, grammar and the culture of English. The workshop sessions are highly interactive and experiential in nature. The course includes planning lessons and teaching fifteen hours of classes to ESOL students. Your trainers and fellow participants will observe you teaching and give "hands-on" advice after each session.

4. Who teaches the course?

The SIT Best Practices in TESOL Certificate course is taught by two trainers working in tandem (or one trainer if the group consists of ten or fewer participants). The trainers' responsibilities include teaching the course content, processing discussions, coaching participants in developing lesson plans, coaching participants on how to plan and teach lessons from the learners' perspectives, facilitating peer teaching and learning, analyzing participants' teaching through observable learner behaviors, and providing feedback to participants based on measurable outcomes. The trainers have significant experience

- 1) teaching a variety of levels with diverse student learners,
- 2) leading group discussions in which they help participants reflect on what they know and what they are learning about teaching and learning,
- 3) Introducing frameworks and guiding the participants' use of a framework.

5. Is the course the same at any site?

SIT Best Practices in TESOL Certificate courses are offered in a variety of locations and can differ in their curricula. The SIT Best Practices Course at Rennert uses the same material and curriculum as the SIT TESOL Certificate. Each course is taught by trainers who have been trained by SIT. In addition, the course is assessed by an SIT evaluator.

6. What kind of people take this course?

Participants encompass a broad range in age and experience, but many are college age students who are interested in teaching English in their native countries. There are also working professionals preparing to enter alternative careers or retirement, as well as those who have been teaching in ESOL for many years who would like to continue their professional development by obtaining a certificate in TESOL.

7. What are the entrance requirements?

You must have a high school degree and show a capacity for tertiary education including a good understanding of the English language and good writing skills. All applicants must have an oral interview (which can be done by phone) to ensure their listening/speaking skills are adequate to take the course and to teach English. All participants must show a willingness to plan and teach in groups and to work reflectively.

8. What kind of a job will I be able to get with this certificate?

The certificate is a pre-service credential which is recognized internationally by many educational and governmental bodies. This certificate will help you find a position in a language institute, in an adult education program or in many public schools overseas. Almost every teaching opportunity overseas now requires the TESOL or TEFL certificate (see below for definitions), and usually one that provides over 100 hours of instruction including a practicum. The SIT Best Practices in TESOL Certificate more than fulfills this requirement.

10. What is the difference between TESOL and TEFL?

Basically they are the same thing. Teaching English to Speakers of Other Languages (TESOL) is an umbrella term that includes Teaching English as a Second Language (TESL) and Teaching English as a Foreign Language (TEFL). TESOL is an acronym that is used more by US-based programs and TEFL more by British programs. Most job postings will include one of these terms.

12. Does everyone who attends the course get a certificate?

To receive the certificate at the end of the course you must meet all the program requirements. The requirements are: 1) attend all the program sessions (allowances are made for emergency situations), 2) communicate effectively in written and oral English 3) successfully achieve the goal and objectives of the program, 4) complete all of the student teaching requirements, 5) successfully complete all program assignments. Trainers in the course will meet with you at regular intervals to give you feedback on all aspects of your work in the program. You will also do self-assessment and peer assessment as part of your program.

13. How does SIT Best Practices in TESOL differ from the SIT TESOL Certificate?

The SIT Best Practices in TESOL Certificate is especially designed for non-native speakers whose English does not meet the standard required for the SIT TESOL Certificate. Participants receive 120 hours of instruction (rather than 130) including a minimum of 6 hours of observed practice teaching per participant. The same materials are used and the same skills, knowledge and teaching principles are covered on both courses. The requirements for completing the course are the same except that the language requirement is not as high.

13. Does SIT offer other programs?

Other programs offered by the S.I.T. Graduate Institute on its campus in Brattleboro, Vermont, USA include:

- Master in International and Intercultural Management
- Master of Arts in Teaching work or attend to other commitments during the course.

Note: The SIT Best Practices in TESOL Certificate Course is very intensive. This being the case, it is highly recommended that it be your top priority for the duration. We have found in the past that participants can become extremely frustrated when trying to juggle the demands of the course with other commitments. The SIT Best Practices in TESOL Certificate course is an amazing opportunity and we want you to be able to take full advantage of it while enjoying the experience. We are very confident that you will be happy with the results.

- In the event of a serious illness or emergency, participants should notify a trainer as soon as possible. The participant must make up all missed work and practice teaching.
- The first full two days of the course cannot be missed. If this should occur, the participant must withdraw.
- If the participant must take a prolonged absence (more than two days), s/he must withdraw from the course. If the absence is due to medical reasons or family emergency and s/he can provide a doctor's note confirming the situation, the participant can start another course within 6 months without payment of further fees. There will be no refund.
- If the participant has missed more than 2 days of the course, has been unable to meet criteria for receiving the certificate, e.g. not completing practice teaching requirements (4 hours of individual practice teaching) in the SIT Best Practices in TESOL Certificate course, or not completing written assignments, no certificate will be granted.

Obtaining the SIT Best Practices in TESOL Certificate

Acceptance into the course is not a guarantee that a participant will receive the certificate. If a participant has not successfully completed or mastered any segment of the course, or has not completed the written work satisfactorily, the participant will not be awarded the certificate, but rather will be awarded a Letter of Learning instead.
